

Directions for Disana Tie-on Diapers

The disana nappy/diaper is very easy to use. Spread out the tie-on, knit nappy/diaper on the changing mat. Slightly, fold down the rear flap. Now place the flannel liner in the center of the nappy/diaper. If your baby is very small, you can adjust the length of the nappy/diaper by folding back the rear edge.

Lay the baby on the nappy/diaper. First, pull up and place the liner between the legs and fold the edges towards the middle.

Then, pull up the lower flap of the nappy/diaper between the legs and over the waist. Here too, by folding the flap, you can adjust the size of the nappy/diaper. Lastly, cross the ties of the knit nappy/diaper across the baby's back, and bring them round to the front and tie in a bow.

The fine knitting gives the nappy/diaper a comfortable elasticity so that it fits snugly. The baby is not restricted, but wrapped gently enough with plenty of room to move.

The disana knit, wool nappy/diaper cover is then pulled over the tie-one diaper. While watertight, the cover allows the air to pass. The soft ribbing around the waist and legs hold the nappy/diaper cover securely and gently in place. Due to the temperature balancing qualities of wool, the baby is kept warm without getting too hot.
